OUR SPEAKER BETH RUGGIERO-YORK

Beth Ruggiero-York is an award-winning and published photographer with a passion for travel photography that grew over the past 40 years of world travel. She led groups for National Geographic (NG) and Smithsonian beginning in the mid-1990s, and when NG was ready to create their photo tour itineraries in China, they called on her to scout itineraries.

Night photography became a passion for Beth 15 years ago on her first photography trip to Alaska and has evolved. Beth now teaches photography in the form of workshops for Arizona Highways PhotoScapes as well as her own workshops in the US, Europe, and Asia, and night photography is a component, if not the whole, of every workshop. She also teaches online classes on night photography and long exposure photography for the Bryan Peterson School of Photography.

Beth is the author of several books, including Fun in The Dark: A Successful Guide to Night Photography (now in its 2nd edition), co-author of Everglades National Park: A Photographic Guide, as well as a personal memoir of her years in the 1980s as a commercial and airline pilot, Flying Alone.

Beth and her husband, Ron York, live in Fountain Hills, AZ half of the year, and on Cape Cod the other half, taking full advantage of the photography opportunities in both locations.
